

Your journey to Microsoft Teams, with Jabra

Microsoft Teams is replacing Skype for Business – helping businesses all over the world to collaborate more effectively and turbo-charge productivity. Here’s how one business is getting the most out of the transition with brilliant sound and a great user experience...

The Sales Exec

In this organization, Sales Executives work in noisy environments, are always on the move, and would wear their headset 24/7 if you let them. On a busy train, they make the most out of calls on Teams with Active Noise Cancellation (ANC) on their headset, while they preps for their next meeting.

The IT Manager

Back in the relative calm of the IT department, the IT Manager travels less but is always using Teams to connect with colleagues in Dublin and Singapore. Often sharing plans and screens – the IT Manager chooses a wireless headset with ANC to enable mobility when moving around the noisy office.

Environment:
Moderate noise

Profile:
Low mobility

The Finance Manager

At the desk is where you will find the Finance Manager, using Teams on the PC to present Quarterly Business Reviews. Dedicated to delivering the message with clarity, the Finance Manager uses a premium corded headset with ANC for maximum comfort and concentration.

The Senior Executive

As a member of the board, the Senior Executive works and makes decisions fast, moving from office to office and device to device. While traveling to the airport on a Teams call – the Senior Executive opts for True Wireless with superior sound, style and multiple device connectivity on-the-go.

The Marketing Director

The company’s Marketing Director is multi-tasking on a campaign from home – on a call with an agency and reviewing documents on screen. A premium portable speakerphone is the perfect solution to conduct clear conversations while collaborating online with suppliers.
